► The Story of Farkhondeh Food Industries

The summer of 1961, the late Haj Abdollah Vaezeh Shoushtari set up the machinery, which he had purchased two years earlier, in Esfahan and produced his very first biscuit called "Astara," and introduced it to the market.

Twenty-four years later, in 1985, the name of this biscuit was changed to "Farkhondeh."

Owing to consumer's trust and despite the tumults of the market, Farkhondeh Food Industries has and continues to forge a special place in the lives of a great many Iranians and is now an inseparable part of their memorable moments.

Farkhondeh Food Industries has always strived for betterment and further development, diversifying the flavors and shapes of its biscuits along with an increase in the production volume. Today, Farkhondeh produces biscuits in thirty-three different forms of packaging with various weights and designs all made available in a wide range of supermarkets and hypermarkets throughout the country as well as export markets.

More than Ten different flavors and seven distinct shapes (up to now), is the result of a centralized as well as specialized strategy in designing and producing various types of biscuits so as to cater to customers' varying tastes and expectations in Iran and all around the world.

► On the Path to Developing the Market

With the aim of maintaining customers' trust, creating an abiding experience as well as keeping a sustained presence on the national and international markets, Farkhondeh Food Industries has long before obtained official certificates meeting the highest standards in the food industry. In accordance with a clearly-defined plan and in specific time periods, this company goes about extending and updating the versions of its certificates in keeping with the internationally stipulated principles.

► The Titles and Versions of the Certificates
